

THE EMERALD TABLET

Now we may easily imagine the two tablets of stone being the left and right hemispheres of the brain into which has been scored the commandments which were later interpreted as rules and regulations for getting on with your brothers and sisters and cousins and in laws, all.

We could then imagine ourselves going up that mountain within ourself to the very same place for some inner conversation and enlightenment from the "free side" of consciousness which connects us as one with the universe and so we become prophetic and connected to previously unimagined possibilities.

Extending the possibilities of these amazing exciting options for change allows us to oversee "psychological walls" of conditioning from a simpler more organic natural perspective which immediately reveals the open pathways of prior hedges and obstructions. The path is instantly revealed when in that elevated detached frame of mind.

Realizations, new learning occur here in this place of mindfulness.

Neurological Communication from the Heart to the Brain

Serpentine spine

Unlike the maze the labyrinth is a path a journey into the centre of our self and then back out. For mankind we see no coincidence here to the parallel language of labia and labyrinth for symbolic and actual passage for life.

Hence the brilliance of working as the self observer in a state of mindfulness.

The pathway is always open however not apparent, so we need to walk the journey to find our way out from whence we came.

Back with Moses his body may have easily been written to represent the land of Egypt and the Israelites may have been the chosen parts of himself that he wished to have released from the habitual conditioned beliefs which he just had so much trouble resisting.

Yes the Moses story has it they took on prayers for support to false Gods as man does with his 'weaknesses' of the flesh for cigarettes, alcohol, sex, other drugs, stimulants, toys of pride and egotistical sprays of material superiority, mortgaged to the hilt on luxuries false Gods in flash homes, modern day chariots of gold and powerful horses of this age.

Those temptious shrew of Pharaoh's demanding critic of consciousness.

Alas, what could he do to resist these temptations to gain the inner strength and resurrect his struggling weakened self beneath the overwhelming domination of Pharaoh's endless demands and pressures of surviving life.

Moses they wrote ascended his inner mountain once more declaring these his people had been bitten and cursed by the asp and they were under a spell of sloth.

From that connection to higher consciousness he received the inner wisdom to make a symbolic back bone,a serpent on a rod to "hang it before them and by seeing it they would be healed".

http://www.rosemary.org.uk

http://www.deltataylor.com

http://www.rosemary.org.uk