FEELING AS THOUGH YOU CAN NEVER PLEASE YOUR SUPERIORS?

In many modern work place situations we find "globs of power" who have become ensconced behind their their inferiority after riding the corporate pony to promotion have 'done their time' and attended the required training and ticked all the right boxes.

So when any 'fresh blood' arrives on the job these psychopaths feel challenged and make life really difficult for well intended enthusiastic individuals.

After a while you might start feeling that you are banging your head against the wall, no body is listening and the issues are painfully obvious to you that change needs to happen.
